

I'll Remember

Phillip Mills

Intro: Am G Em Am

♩ = 110

Did I tell you that I saw an elf? He was sleep - ing on the
There are times when I still think of us As we fought that old white street when I walked home last night. Though it's been a dra - gon with his freez - ing breath. Hik - ing home 'cross long time, still... I am al - most sure... all gold - en hair and sil - ver light north - land ice While you laughed and judged his wea - pon on - ly brisk and fresh.

Weren't they once mag - nif - i - cent, so — proud, so self - pos - sessed? To - Now the winds bring worse chills than an - y mon - ster that we feared. I mor - row you'll re - call a - gain, no need to feel dis - tressed.

feel the win - ter stalk me through the aut - umn of the year.

I'll re - mem - ber for us both; you should get your rest.
Let me pull your blan - ket up; there's a draught in here.

Once up - on a time in this land of i - mag - in - ing You right - ed eve - ry

G Am G F G
 wrong. You lived for bat-tle song. You stood tall and strong. And Am Asus Em7 Am Am7 Cmaj7
 I could still the wind or call the rain. I a-gree, dear, noon is much to Em7 Am C Dm7
 ear-ly for the dark-ness. Yes, I'm sure the e-vil King you van-quished is still G Am7 Cmaj7 Em7 Am
 dead. May-be it's a cloud you saw that's pass-ing by your win-dow.
 C Em7 Dm7 G
 I can pull the cur-tains wide, help the sun-light touch your bed
 Am G Em Am F
 Once up-on a time in this land of i-mag-in-ing You right-ed eve-ry
 G Am G F G
 wrong. You lived for bat-tle song. You stood tall and strong. And Am Asus Em7 Am
 When
 I could still the wind or call the rain.
 I could heal your heart and ease your pain.

History:

March, 2007